Policy / procedure

1. Definition

- 1.1. OCA defines academic misconduct as any action by a student which gives or has the potential to give an unfair advantage in an examination or assessment, or might assist someone else to gain an unfair advantage, or any activity likely to undermine the integrity essential to scholarship and research (as defined by Office for Independent Adjudicator). .

2. Offences OCA recognises as academic misconduct

2.1. Plagiarism

- 2.1.1. This is defined as the representation of another person's work or ideas as one's own, for example by failing to follow convention in acknowledging sources (correct referencing), use of quotation marks, etc. This includes the unauthorised use of one student's work by

Version number:	Status:	Owner:	Approved By:	Date of Approval:	Date of next review
1	Approved	Stephanie Gillott	OCA Board	7 June 2022	June 2023

another student and the commissioning, purchase and submission of a piece of work, in part or whole, as the student's own.

2.1.2. Work means any intellectual output, and typically includes text, data, images, sound or performance and includes material downloaded from electronic sources.

2.1.3. Examples of plagiarism are:

- submitting assignments obtained from others, whether within or without the OCA, including on a commercial basis, and including from essay mills;
- fabrication of information;
- theft or misrepresentation of identity (which includes requesting others to undertake an assessment);
- misrepresenting or defaming the work or opinions of others;
- submitting the same work to satisfy the requirements of two assessments;
- colluding with others to submit work which is not entirely one's own

2.2. Self-Plagiarism

2.2.1. This is defined as students submitting their own work or part thereof when any of this has previously been submitted for marks or credits, even if in a different module or for a different qualification or completed prior to entry to OCA.

2.2.2. The only exceptions to this are where:

- students are required to review and redraft their earlier work. In this instance students must cite that work as having been used in the assessment of a previous assignment or unit.
- Where students are representing work that has been previously submitted as a draft for formative feedback.

2.3. Enabling Plagiarism

2.3.1. This is defined as acts which may encourage or enable students to commit plagiarism e.g., posting your work or that of other students onto a website or social media platform, without citation

Version number:	Status:	Owner:	Approved By:	Date of Approval:	Date of next review
1	Approved	Stephanie Gillott	OCA Board	7 June 2022	June 2023

2.3.2. Enabling plagiarism is considered academic misconduct regardless of whether the work you shared was a draft, incomplete or finished piece of work and whether or not the work includes marks, comments or other materials produced by a tutor, supervisor or other marker and whether or not you intended to enable or encourage plagiarism. The only exception is where prior consent has been given by OCA in writing

2.3.3. Collusion

2.3.4. Collusion is working with one or more other students to produce a piece of work that students submit as their own work, or allowing other students to use any part of the work as if it is their own.

2.3.5. Examples of collusion are:

- working together with others on an assignment with the exception where this is required see point 2.4.6.
- sharing research
- discussing the assignment with other students in too much detail or working together to prepare or share drafts of your work such that the work produced is very similar, for example in sources used, structure or wording;
- allowing other students to read through your draft or finished assignments before they have completed and submitted their own work;
- proof reading someone's assignment and changing the content, meaning, or structure of the work or correcting facts or calculations within the assignment (the exception to this is where a student has an acknowledged learning disability, a proof-reader may be used to ensure that the student's meaning is not misunderstood as a result of the quality and standard of writing. a proof-reader may identify spelling and basic grammatical errors. Inaccuracies in academic content should not be corrected nor should the structure of the piece of work be changed)

Version number:	Status:	Owner:	Approved By:	Date of Approval:	Date of next review
1	Approved	Stephanie Gillott	OCA Board	7 June 2022	June 2023

- 2.3.6. Legitimate input from tutors or approved readers or scribes is not considered to be collusion.
- 2.3.7. Working together with other students on a piece of work that will be submitted for individual assessment is not permitted and can lead to all the students involved being investigated for academic misconduct
- 2.3.8. Discussing the material and ideas students are learning with their tutor and other students is beneficial and is encouraged. However, when the students start to write their assignment they must make sure this is entirely their own work and they should not share it with other students.
- 2.3.9. For some unit requirements students may be instructed to collaborate with other students to exhibit together, prepare data, conduct research, or draft work. In these cases, working together is encouraged but you should read the assignment guidance carefully to understand which parts of the assignment can be completed in collaboration with others and which are expected to be your own work.
- 2.4. Contract Cheating
- 2.4.1. Contract cheating is the act of engaging with commercial assignment help services, including on websites and social media, to either obtain or make available assignments, assignment questions or OCA assessment resources. Contract cheating can involve either committing or enabling plagiarism
- 2.4.2. Commercial assignment help services can include essay mills, services which offer a repository of answers to assessment questions, services which enable students to upload or share assessment questions and services which allow students to obtain tailored or automated answers to assessment questions
- 2.4.3. If students use any of the following services they may be considered to be engaged in contract cheating:

Version number:	Status:	Owner:	Approved By:	Date of Approval:	Date of next review
1	Approved	Stephanie Gillott	OCA Board	7 June 2022	June 2023

- Using tailored services to write essays or other types of assignments;
- Using commercial services which offer access to a bank of answers to assessment questions and submitting any part of these as their own work
- Engaging others to conduct research on their behalf;
- Posting assignment questions or assessment resources to commercial websites or other platforms;
- Requesting answers or solutions to assessment questions from other individuals or services;
- Using services that offer automated answers or solutions to assessment questions and submitting these as their own work
- Using translation tools to generate text and submitting this as your own work

2.4.4. Some services may use threats to report you to your institution for plagiarism to extort money. If this happens to you, you should always report the incident to OCA so appropriate action can be taken. OCA will take this into account in any subsequent academic conduct investigations.

2.5. Misconduct in an exam

2.5.1. Misconduct in an exam is any behaviour in which a student seeks to gain an advantage over other students by engaging in inappropriate conduct.

2.5.2. Misconduct in a remote, online and/or non invigilated exam includes any of the offences listed in 2.1 to 2.5 of this policy

2.5.3. Misconduct in a face to face or invigilated exam includes the possession of prohibited materials or equipment in an exam, engaging someone to impersonate the student in an exam, or seeking to gain advantage in other ways or from other persons

2.5.4. A high standard of conduct is expected in all exams. Any misconduct is seen as a serious matter that can result in disciplinary action

3. Identifying academic misconduct

3.1. Summative assessment

3.1.1. All students will be asked to confirm at the time of submitting work for assessment that the work:

- is their own, not copied from elsewhere, and that any use of someone else's ideas or words has been appropriately acknowledged and referenced; (see 2.1)
- has been produced explicitly for that course unit, not copied from work undertaken previously (see 2.2)

3.1.2. All student extended written work required as part of their summative assessment submission will be required to undergo plagiarism checks. OCA uses Turnitin plagiarism detection software to detect matches between the student work and other online sources.

3.2. Formative assessment

3.2.1. OCA tutors can at any time, raise concerns over any work submitted for formative feedback. This may be due to a:

- change in the student writing style which may indicate that the student has not written the assignment themselves
- significant differences in content or style within the same piece of work which could suggest that not all of the words used by the student are their own

3.2.2. If the tutor is concerned about possible academic misconduct in the work, or is unable to verify the work, these concerns should be flagged in the first instance to their Programme Leaders who will review and where required seek advice or investigation from the OCA Quality Team.

3.2.3. If the case is referred for investigation the student won't receive feedback for that piece of work until the investigation has concluded

4. Procedures for dealing with identified academic misconduct

4.1. After student work is put through Turnitin a report is produced which provides a similarity index against other online sources. This similarity index is reviewed by the OCA Assessment Team. The thresholds used by OCA to trigger a cause for concern are a similarity index of less than 30% overall, and/or less than 20% from one source.

Version number:	Status:	Owner:	Approved By:	Date of Approval:	Date of next review
1	Approved	Stephanie Gillott	OCA Board	7 June 2022	June 2023

- 4.2. If there is cause for concern raised either through plagiarism detection software or by a marker, the student may either be referred for study skills support or referred for further investigation by an OCA Quality & Enhancement Officer (QAEO). This happens alongside - but separate from - the marking process
- 4.3. If the student is referred for study skills support, a disciplinary marker will not be added to the student record but a note will be made of the referral, including what it was for and what support/information the student was offered. If the student is found to have plagiarised in future, the fact that they were offered specific support on the subject will be taken into account by an QAEO when deciding on a disciplinary outcome and penalty
- 4.4. If a 'cause for concern' is triggered then a report of this is sent to a OCA Quality & Enhancement Officer (QAEO). The report will include:
- the location of any suspected plagiarism
 - copy of the original work
 - copy of the Turnitin report
- 4.5. Upon receipt of any allegation of plagiarism, the (QAEO) will decide if there is sufficient prima facie evidence to suggest that the student has contravened the regulations. If the decision is that there is not sufficient evidence, the case is dropped. Otherwise, this will be referred for disciplinary investigation. The student would only be notified of the 'cause for concern' if the case was referred to disciplinary investigation.
- 4.6. If the case is referred for disciplinary investigation, there are 3 steps that will be taken:
- 4.6.1. Step 1 - (QAEO) will write to the student concerned:
- to present the allegation(s);
 - to request a written statement in response to the allegation(s) and any factors which the student would like taken into account;
 - to request this reply within 10 working days of the date on which the letter is sent (also explaining the consequences of failure to reply);
 - to enclose a copy of this policy;
 - to also enclose copies of any evidence or report

Version number:	Status:	Owner:	Approved By:	Date of Approval:	Date of next review
1	Approved	Stephanie Gillott	OCA Board	7 June 2022	June 2023

- Students will be contacted via their provided OCA email accounts with the exception of students who have an approved ICT exemption who will receive a hard copy letter

4.6.2. Step 2 - Review of all evidence and student response to inform the decision if a breach of this policy has taken place and what penalty will be applied. Penalties are detailed in section 5. This review may take up to 30 working days. If the investigation will not be concluded within this period then the student will be contacted and advised of the delay and given an expected date for completion of review and outcome decision. The student will still be permitted to continue their studies whilst the investigation is underway. As this could still be part of the summative assessment process and could therefore be subject to academic appeal the QAEO will also convene with an independent Programme Leader to discuss and determine the outcome at this stage. The details of this discussion will be added to the student record.

4.6.3. Step 3 - Write to the student with the decision made in relation to the breach of policy. If a breach of policy is identified, a decision will be made as to whether a penalty should be applied. If no breach is found and the case is dismissed, it will be removed from the student record and the student may still be referred for study skills support to help them to improve their academic practice so the student does not find themselves in a similar position in the future.

4.6.4. If it is found that the student has used the services of a contract cheating website or essay mill or that they have used somebody else to write the assessment for them then this is considered to be serious academic misconduct and this may be referred directly to the OCA's Curriculum & Quality Committee (CQC) for investigation.

4.6.5. Academic misconduct offences will be investigated as soon as possible after an issue is raised. In some cases, this may mean that an investigation may take place months or even years after the offence was originally committed, for instance if the student material is found on an external website some time after it was first posted. Students can still be investigated for academic misconduct after they have completed their OCA studies. For these cases, OCA will liaise with the awarding institution to determine the appropriate penalties which could include the rescinding of awards previously given.

5. Penalties for Academic Misconduct

5.1. Types of Penalties

- 5.1.1. Students may receive an informal caution from the OCA Quality Team if it is considered that an offence has been committed but it is not sufficiently serious to warrant a disciplinary or an academic penalty. This will remain on the student record and can be taken into account if the student is referred for plagiarism investigations in future.
- 5.1.2. In cases of a breach of policy due to plagiarism OCA will use the AMBeR Tariff (see Appendix 1 for full AMBeR document) to determine the penalty when an offence has been committed.

5.2. AMBeR Tariff Points

- 5.2.1. In case of plagiarism in written work students will be assigned points as determined in the AMBeR Tariff using the following factors:

5.4. Impact of penalties on your study

- 5.4.1. Any penalty where marks are deducted from the assignment score could have a detrimental effect on your overall unit result and could mean the difference between passing or failing the unit. A penalty which reduces the grade of pass received for the module could also affect the overall degree classification.

6. Appealing the decision

- 6.1. Students wishing to appeal the decision made as a result of an academic misconduct investigation have the right to do so. They should refer to OCA's Academic Appeals Policy & Procedures for details on how to do this.

Implementing the policy

Cases of academic misconduct will be recorded by OCA's Quality Team and inform the programme level annual monitoring.

Support for the policy

Students who need assistance in understanding this policy or require this in an alternative format, should in the first instance contact OCA's Learner Support Team at learnersupport@oca.ac.uk
